

ABSTRACT

Via a publicly-accessible computer network for a selected public figure a user is permitted to select a photograph of the public figure based upon identifying information associated with the photograph. The user is permitted to purchase a copy of the selected photograph. The user is advantageously permitted to specify that the photograph copy be autographed by the selected public figure.